DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1-3 and 8-12 are pending.

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 22 December 2006 has been entered.

Claim interpretation

2. The term "dilatant" is accepted to define a property of a material to increase in viscosity with an increase in shear force, i.e., shear thickening.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter, which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claims 1-3 and 9-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Components (B) and (C) are silicone medium and (B) and (C) both set forth relative concentrations. Specific attention is directed to claim 9, which sets forth component (B) as a silicone oil.

It is unclear what are the metes and bounds of the claims since it is unclear how much of the components (B) should be attributed to the claimed concentrations of component (B) and/or component (C).

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 8 and 12 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-3 and 8-12 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
